TRUSTEES' REPORT.

The Fifty-fourth Annual Report of the Trustees of the Peabody Institute, for the year ending January 31st, 1906, is respectfully submitted.

The reports of the Lycéum and Library Committee, and the various sub-committees, with that of the Treasurer, are here given in detail.

From the Treasurer's Report we note that the invested funds of the Institute are in a most satisfactory condition, and little change has been made in this account during the year passed.

The Building Committee have made many needed improvements, devoting much time and care to their task, and we now find the Institute building and the several houses constituting the Institute property in very good condition. Further expenditures no doubt will be made during the coming year.

The incoming Board of Trustees are recommended to consider and take action on the reports of the Librarian and various committees, whose requests will, it is thought, if carried out, be very beneficial.

The Trustees regret the retirement of our Treasurer, Frank W. Stanley, whose term of office expires this year. This gentleman has proved a most efficient Treasurer, careful and prudent, whose advice has always been considered of great value.

WILLIAM ARMSTRONG, President,

TREASURER'S REPORT.

TO THE TRUSTEES OF THE PEABODY INSTITUTE IN PEABODY, MASS. :

Gentlemen:—

There is very little that your Treasurer can submit to you this year, except his figures, as nothing has been done outside of the regular routine; only three bonds were purchased, they being the Atlantic Coast Line.

All interest has been paid when due, and all rents have been settled.

FRANK W. STANLEY, Treasurer.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

LYCEUM AND LIBRARY COMMITTEE.

TO THE TRUSTEES OF THE PEABODY INSTITUTE.

Gentlemen:—I transmit herewith the reports of the librarians and of the sub-committees of the Lyceum and Library Committee. They present in full the work of the Institute for the year ending January 31, 1906.

Respectfully submitted,

J. W. HUDSON,

Chairman Lyceum and Library Committee.

Peabody, Jan. 31, 1906.

REPORT OF THE LIBRARY COMMITTEE FOR THE YEAR ENDING JANUARY 31, 1906.

In conformity with established custom the report of the Library Committee is herewith submitted.

The work of the library for the year now ending has not been of the ostentatious kind from which happenings out of the common run might be chronicled. There were no special reforms to be inaugurated nor were there serious obstacles to overcome. It was just the plain every-day performance of duty which makes no display but leaves behind the sense of work well done.

It is not all mere routine, however, in the executive administration of a library. There are questions continually arising that require decision, judgment and patience for their successful solution. The patrons of a public library are of all kinds. It is not the student nor he who is familiar with books, that need the librarian's attention and encouragement. As a rule this class of persons know what they want and where it can be found. Rather is it the timid and the stranger, the boy or girl in doubt, that require advice and guidance, and they never fail to receive what they need.

It will be seen from the librarian's report that more books have been added than for any corresponding period (for many years). There are special reasons for this increase, coupled with the fact that the year has been unusually fruitful in publications. It is the committee's belief that the additions were well chosen and have added to the strength and efficiency of the library.

The question is sometimes asked—"Have you not books enough in the library for the number of your readers and what is the need of buying more when many will be only slightly read and some perhaps not at all?" To this we can say that for a public library to fulfil its functions one can not stop buying, no more than one can stop breathing. Whenever a library stands still it is a dead library.

Again the remark is heard, "Why do you continue to buy books on subjects that are covered by those you already have?" The question is a fair one and it is true there are cases where additional purchases would be unnecessary and uncalled for. But, it should be borne in mind that new facts are continually coming to light and papers and documents having a bearing on important events in history are now, for the first time, given to the world.

Probably no man who ever lived has been more written about than Napoleon Bonaparte, and none has been the object of such an amount of laudation on the one hand and so much detraction on the other: yet, it remained for one of his latest biographers, the Englishman Rose, to give the world the fairest life of Napoleon yet written. Two reasons may be adduced for this:—The first—that he had access to material hitherto not available, and the other—that he approached his subject with a perfectly candid mind.

One of the regrettable, at the same time unavoidable, features about a public library is the large number of trivial and ephemeral books which it contains. The desire for light reading, for amusing and diverting publications, is universal and not confined to any class. Statistics everywhere show that people will read fiction, and many will read nothing else. That being the case, the best that can be done is to furnish that which is clean, wholesome and well written.

There is this to be said also—it prevents recourse to the pernicious stuff that is seen on every hand and it is likely to lead to better things. If a person were to select the contents of a library according to his standards, it would be his library, not a public library.

It is cheering, however, to note the downfall of the decadent school of novelists and to know that the latest Russian writer of ignoble themes, subsidized by a publisher while yet in prison, utterly failed to arouse public favor for his stories.

It has been the custom for some time back to mention a few of the more important books which were added to the library during the year just about to close. A retrospect of one's doings is often interesting and nearly always salutary. It may be said that no department of literature was neglected and if occasionally a certain work was not purchased, the omission was due to scanty funds rather than inattention or ignorance.

It was early in the season when the "Autobiography of Andrew D. White" was published with the story of the busy life of a useful representative American citizen: a scholar, a gentleman and a diplomat. Singularly enough, before the year came to a close, there appeared "The Life of Lord Randolph Churchill," the two men being the very antithesis of each other in birth, temperament and environment. Alfred R. Wallace's "My Life," is one of the great books of the year. Scientist, traveller, philosopher, unknowingly working on the same lines as Darwin, his whole life was devoted to study and investigation for the benefit of mankind. To the Essex Institute in Salem, we are indebted for the publication of the first volume of Rev. William Bentley's diary. Mr. Bentley was more than a gossip. He was a man who was interested in everything and whose learning illuminated many things. His whole life was a fine illustration of toleration and Christian charity. It is hoped that other volumes will follow.

In the line of history the most notable contributions have been Mahan's "Sea power in its Relation to the War of 1812," Ular's "Russia from Within" and two additional volumes of McCarthy's "History of our own Times."

Two books of great interest have been added to the department relating to natural science. These are Sargent's "Manual of the Trees of North America" and Townsend's "Birds of Essex County, Massachusetts."

There is always fascination in books of travel and description. As evidence to show that these subjects have not been neglected, we can point to James' "In and out of the old Missions of California," Abbe Klein's "In the Land of the Strenuous Life," MacLain's "Alaska and the Klondike" and Williams' "Diamond fields of South Africa."

Fiction deserves consideration, for three fourths of the books read throughout the United States come within that category. Of the great mass of novels published during the year, none could be classed as great, though the majority were respectable. The three strongest books in the class of fiction were written by women, two of whom are American. Singularly enough, though all are books of undeniable power and high literary merit, yet they convey to the reader an unpleasant feeling. Mary Wilkins Freeman takes us out of New England for the setting of her story and though one cannot admire many of the characters in "The Debtor," yet her intensity and graphic power of description must be admitted. Mrs. Thurston's book, "The Gambler," does not rank with some of her former efforts, though it was lauded by many of the leading critics. The cropping out of the hereditary taint in the heroine of the story makes the book too painful to become popular with sympathetic readers.

The "House of Mirth," by Edith Wharton has elicited many conflicting opinions. In keen analysis and intellectual power it has few equals among recent books, but even its most ardent admirers must admit that it leaves a feeling of depression and that while Mrs. Wharton has undoubtedly added to her reputation by her latest work, it is to be hoped that in her future efforts she may impart a share of the pleasures and joys of every day existence.

There is imperative need of more shelf room in the library. How this can be best provided for is for the proper authorities to determine. The building has served its purpose well but, when it was erected, more than fifty years ago, little was known about library construction and stacks and galleries as library accessories were scarcely thought of.

As time goes on the wisdom and large mindedness of the manner in which Mr. Peabody made the bequest to his native town becomes more apparent. It was given to be free as the air, hampered by no restrictions, hedged in by no exactions. He did not as many have done in such cases impose a body of trustees of his own choosing with power to fill vacancies and perpetuate themselves.

Instead he placed it in the hands of the people, in whom he had faith. The town then became the governing power and has always remained so. Every year the vacancies on the board of trustees are filled by the votes of the people and to the town alone is this board responsible.

If the question were asked—what does the town give in return for controlling power, the answer would be, the Institute gets nothing, expects nothing. All it hopes for is—a more generous use by the citizens of the stores which have been gathered for their benefit and a heavier demand on the treasures of literature which the library contains.

It is an honor and a privilege to have a part in the ministration of Mr. Peabody's gift to the town. Sooner or later it becomes a pleasure. It engenders a feeling of responsibility, it creates a spirit of loyalty and awakens a desire to assist as far as possible in carrying out the designs of him who was a benefactor to humanity.

The administrative work of the library has been carried on in the same admirable and efficient manner to which we have become accustomed. To every person who enters its portals, civility and attention are sure to be extended and the neatness and good order seen in every portion of the building bear evidence of the good care and attention which it receives.

THOMAS CARROLL,
Chairman.

REPORT OF THE EBEN DALE SUTTON REFERENCE LIBRARY.

TO THE LYCEUM AND LIBRARY COMMITTEE OF THE PEABODY INSTITUTE:—

The report of the Eben Dale Sutton Reference Library Committee for the year ending January 31, 1906, is respectfully submitted.

It is a pleasure to all connected with this library to know that there is in town such a collection of rare and beautiful books; and as new books of prominence are published and added to our collection they suggest older books on similar lines which have become classics and we nearly always find that former committees had foreseen their merit and placed them in the library. And much attention has always been paid to the bindings and we can show with pride specimens of beautiful and substantial book-binding. The collection of books is not only for the edification of the committee which has charge of the library and comes to know them through exercising its duties, but for every citizen of the town, and it was indeed a beautiful thought of the founder put into practice,—this memorial library, which grows year by year and becomes more and more useful and beautiful, and a greater monument.

Some of the most important books added this year are The International Encyclopædia, The Standard Dictionary, March's Thesaurus Dictionary of the English Language, History of Egypt, 12 vols., by Maspero, World's Best Poetry, 10 vols., Jordan's Guide to the Study of Fishes, Country Homes of Famous Americans, Old Clocks and Watches and their Makers, Britten; Historic Dress in America, McClennan; Porcelain, Dillon; English Furniture, Robinson; Letters of Horace Walpole, Letters of Edward Fitzgerald, Poems Relating to the Revolution, Freneau.

The pressing need of the library just now is for more drawer space. The drawers are all full and as this seems the best method of preserving fine bindings, we would suggest that the next committee carry out on the west wall of the room the same arrangement as on the east wall which was added a few years ago.

We wish in closing, to thank the Trustees for the change of the light in the entry and also the librarian and the janitor for their co-operation.

For the Committee,
FRED W. BUSHBY, Chairman.

REPORT OF THE LYCEUM COMMITTEE.

TO THE LYCEUM AND LIBRARY COMMITTEE :

The Lyceum Committee of 1905 and 1906 respectfully submit their report of the fifty-second course of lectures held at the Peabody Institute.

The Committee selected the different lecturers very early in the season, and had the course laid out the latter part of August, 1905, with what promised to be a very satisfactory course of illustrated lectures, at prices within the appropriation made by the Trustees. There has been an unusually large attendance at these lectures this season and there is no doubt but that the change from so many lectures as the course used to give, to a few selected illustrated lectures, is very acceptable to the public as shown by the attendance.

They were disappointed on January 24th, by the non-appearance of Mr. W. C. Frost, who was to lecture on Napoleon Bonaparte, illustrated. He failed to put in an appearance owing to illness which he contracted at the last minute and the Committee expect to give the fourth lecture in the course the latter part of the month.

The following is the lecture course for the season :

Oct. 25, 1905. Hon. Arthur K. Peck. The Grand Canon of Arizona.

Nov. 22, 1905. Hon. Peter MacQueen. The Panama Canal and the Glorious Tropics.

Dec. 20, 1905. Prof. Edward H. Forbes. The High Heavens.

Jan. 24, 1906. Postponed to some future date to be announced later.

ELMER B. THOMAS,

For the Lyceum Committee.

READING ROOM COMMITTEE.

TO THE LYCEUM AND LIBRARY COMMITTEE.

The report of the Reading Room Committee for the year ending Jan. 31, 1906, is respectfully submitted.

There has been no noticeable change in the attendance.

The Greek newspaper, "Thermopylæ," after a trial of six months, has been discontinued, there being but little demand for it.

Longman's Magazine, an English monthly, has stopped publication.

There have been added during the year, Bird Lore, Library Index to Periodicals, Theosophical Review, and the evening edition of the Boston Daily Globe.

The Committee added this daily newspaper, as quite a few persons seemed interested in the morning edition of the Boston Herald which has been left in the reading room by the janitor. The Committee feel that, if funds are available, the list of daily newspapers could be extended to good advantage.

There are 76 periodicals, etc., now on file in the reading room, a list of same being included in the Librarian's report.

WILLIAM H. HILL, Chairman.

BUILDING COMMITTEE.

TO THE TRUSTEES OF THE PEABODY INSTITUTE.

The report of the Building Committee for the year ending January 31st, 1906, is respectfully submitted.

At the annual meeting of the Trustees held March 20th, 1905, it was deemed necessary by our Committee that a thorough inspection of the real property under our charge be made and a report, with recommendations, submitted to the full Board of Trustees.

At a special meeting May 22d, 1905, called for this purpose, our report with recommendations was adopted, and later the specifications and contracts were awarded and the work has all been satisfactorily performed.

While the repairs needing attention were found to be many, and the amount expended upon same was necessarily large, the fact was evident that some of the work was undertaken none too soon.

A new furnace for heating the Reference Library has been installed, the one displaced having become entirely unfit for further service. The two furnaces serving the main building may have to be abandoned at no distant day, and it is well to bear the fact in mind that your consideration must soon be given to the introduction of steam to supplant the present obsolete method of heating this building.

Another matter of much importance is the large expenditure that must be incurred in renewing the slate on the entire library building and tower, also otherwise repairing the tower, viz: pointing between the upper layers of brick and renewing the present balustrade which is rapidly becoming a menace and consequently a source of danger in the event of high winds.

The subject of frescoing in the main hall is one more properly to be considered after the roof has been made secure, to prevent further damage to the ceiling and walls below.

For the Committee,
GEORGE A. WHITNEY, Chairman.

LIBRARIAN'S REPORT.

The report of the Librarian for the year ending January 31st, 1906, is respectfully submitted.

The time is soon coming, if it is not already here, when some determination of the question of additional room for the storage of books must be made. During the past summer the Building Committee of the Trustees installed two new alcoves, one on either side of the rear entrance, one of which was at once utilized to relieve the crowded condition of the Science shelves, and the other for bound sets of Periodicals.

The present floor space is now practically all utilized, though it is possible that about four small cases might be built between the present ones, in front of the windows, provided they were kept down to not over five shelves in height to avoid shutting off the light.

If this should prove practicable, about 250 feet of additional shelving could be obtained. If it is not feasible to do this, it is imperative that other steps be taken to enlarge our shelf space in such manner as investigation shall prove to be best. In this connection it may be said that the 789 volumes added to the library the past year required for their accomodation considerably over 100 linear feet of shelf space. This is the most pressing and important question confronting the library today.

The total number of volumes added to the library the past year, 912, is the greatest in any year since 1888, and after deducting the withdrawals and losses amounting to 123 volumes, the net gain of 789 volumes is the greatest since 1891. The increase is mostly accounted for by the liberal policy pursued in making replacements, a number of sets of the older standard authors which were badly worn and defaced having been retired and replaced by new sets; many worn out juveniles and popular fiction have also been replaced during the year. The withdrawals for the year number 112 volumes, the greatest for years, but accounted for in large measure by the retirement of the old standard sets above referred to.

The figures on circulation call for no special comment, and are practically identical with those of the previous year.

The following have been added to the list of periodicals on file in the Reading Room: Boston Daily Globe, evening edition, Bird Lore, Library Index to Periodicals and Theosophical Review, the latter the gift of the Peabody Branch of the Theosophical Society. Thermopylæ, the modern Greek newspaper, has been discontinued owing to lack of use, and Longman's Magazine has discontinued publication. The subscription to a daily newspaper is an innovation, and it is probable that if patronage warrants several other dailies may be added the coming year.

There are now on file in the Reading Room 76 periodicals, of which 63 are currently bound.

Our membership in the Library Art Club has been continued, and the following exhibitions have been given the past year:—

Views of Paris,	Feb. 1-18.
Views of Grand Canyon of Arizona,	April 4-24.
Works of Dürer,	April 25-May 15.
Views of Switzerland,	May 16-June 6.
Masterpieces of Art,	June 6-26.
German Sculpture,	Aug. 22-Sept. 11.
Pagan Rome, No. 1,	Sept. 19-Oct. 9.
Pagan Rome, No. 2,	Oct. 10-30.
Italian Fountains,	Nov. 14-Dec. 4.
Egypt,	Dec. 12-30.
Famous pictures,	Jan. 23, 1906-Feb. 12.

The work of the Building Committee of the Trustees in painting the walls of practically the entire first floor of the library building, and the installation of additional electric lights in the upper and lower rear halls has added to the attractiveness of the library.

This committee also provided, during the summer, the additional card catalog case asked for in last year's report.

The assistants have satisfactorily performed their duties during the year, and the hearty cooperation of our janitor, Mr. McKeen, deserves, and is accorded the amplest recognition.

Statistics in the usual form are appended, with a list of donors of bound volumes and of periodicals on file in the library room.
